AN ALLIANCE CIRCULAR. How the Farmers Can Get Up a Corner

CROPS IN THIS COUNTRY PROMISE TO BE GOOD, WHILE THEY ARE SHORT IN EUROPE-FARMERS ADVISED TO HOLD THEIR CROPS AND REAP THE BENEFIT OF THE INCREASED PRICE.

The Farmers' Alliance folks are greatly interested in the reports of small shipments of wheat and increasing prices. The alliance prophets have been predicting a rise in the price of wheat and have been advising farmers to hold their crops as long as possible in order to get the advantage of the increase. It has been said that the alliance was going to try to make a corner in wheat. This the alliance leaders deny, but they say they have done their best to inform the farmers of the condition of the wheat crops of the world, so that they may know what to calculate on in making their sales.

Through the "reform press bureau," which is located in this city, the alliance leaders are sending out a circular, prepared some time ago and recently adopted for circulation among the farmers, which enters into a full discussion of out to the farmers. Two hundred thousand will be sent out between now and Monday, and it is contemplated circulating a million copies. It is expected that the result will be slow shipment of wheat to the markets and that the farmer will himself claim the increased value of his product, instead of giving the speculators the bonefit of the profits. In other words, the farmers will do a little speculating in their own way. own way.

WHAT THE CIRCULAR SAYS. The circular says in part: Our Agricultural Department issues every nonth a government report about the crops. These reports estimate the number of acres sown and give the percentage of condition. A percentage of 100 is a somewhat ideal crop and would indicate a yield of thirteen bushels and a folk navy yard today for New York.

SECRETARY FOSTES left Washington last evening for Cape May and will be gone for about a week.

would indicate a yield of thirteen bushels and a fraction to the acre. It has been surpassed only once, namely, in the year 1882, when the condition at harvest was 104 and the yield thirteen and one-half per acre. Our present crop is somewhat similar to the crops of 1884, the government report making the acreage the same and the condition somewhat less. In 1884 at harvest time the condition of winter wheat was reported as 98 and of spring wheat as 99. This year the condition of winter wheat is 96.6 and that of spring wheat 92.6, or about 3½ per cent less than the final report of 1884. less than the final report of 1884.

As the harvest of 1884, the largest we ever had, was 512,000,000 bushels the last government report would indicate a crop of 494,000,000 bushels, say 500,000,000 in round numbers.

The home consumption has increased with the population and is certainly over 350,000,000.

The home consumption has increased with the population and is certainly over 350,000,000 bushels, probably 360,000,000, which leaves us 140,000,000 for export.

Russia appointed a commission to investigate the crop damages, which reported wheat 17 per cent below average and rye much worse. It is the custom of that government to quiet the alarm of the people, and the damage, therefore, is surely not less than reported, but probably much more.

PRESIDENT POLK TALKS.

He Says the Real Issue is the Reform of President Polk of the Farmers' Alliance has just returned from his southern tour. His last speech was in South Carolina, where it has been said there is a considerable difference of opinion on the subtreasury question, Gov. Tillman being opposed to the bill.

Mr. Polk said to a STAR reporter today that the alliance was not losing ground anywhere, but was progressing beautifully. All talk about a split on account of the subtreasury idea, he said, was absurd. What difference of opinion there was, he said, was as to the form of the measure and its details; there was no difference of measure and its details; there was no difference of opinion as to the principle and every Farmers' Alliance man had the same object in view. Mr. Polk said he had been quoted incorrectly as saying that the great issue was the tariff and free coinage, and that with these issues the alliance would all rally around the sub treasury.

"Now," said he, "the issue is not the tarin, the free coinage of silver nor the subtreasury bill. The issue is the reform of our entire financial system. Neither the issuance of more money nor the collection of less taxes will alone do the people any good. The entire financial system of the government must be changed before anything else that may be done can correct the existing evils."

Fitzsimmons is just as sore as he was yesterday, while Parson Davies, who could have gotten the men together and had the fight over by midnight had he been so inclined, makes a bluff of saying that he will keep Hall in condition for a few days in the hope that there may yet be a meeting. As the facts become generally known and it is realized that after Fitzsimmons' defi of yesterday afternoon there was no good reason why the two men should not have been brought together, either in Minneapolis or across the border line, the feeling against Hall increases in intensity, and the epithets applied to him by many of his former adherents have been the reverse of complimentary.

prices could never be lower, but even if one-half or more of the farmers should be persuaded by the arguments of railroad and elevator men to rush their wheat into the market, the result would be the same, for if a considerable number of those who are in the habit of marketing early hold back a little while the farmers' deliveries would fall short of the requirements and the effect would be the same as if no wheat had been brought in at all.

"There is, however, little danger that any considerable number of farmers could be induced to market their product in hot haste at present prices, as resolutions adopted by the state alliances long ago show that they know their enemics.

"They also know that the remnants of last year's crop are smaller than ever, and that present prices are entirely out of proportion to the condition of the world's crop.

"No crops that can be raised this year can change the fact that the world's supply is immensely below the requirements."

The meeting of ex-Gov. Foraker and Senator Sherman at Cincinnati this week and Foraker's statement of his position regarding the U. 8. senatorship leaves no doubt that the senatorial campaign will be an interesting side spectacle in both the republican and democratic parties to the great contest for the governorship. If a republican legislature should be elected the senatorship will in all probability go to Foraker. Many reasons might be given for this opinion. Many reasons might be given for this opinion. Many reasons might be given for this opinion. In the first place the young republicars are for Foraker. It is they that do the work. The great majority of the members of the legislature will be young men. The farmers are opposed to Sherman. At their state meeting kere four months ago they took occasion to denounce Sherman. His election would offend the alliance voters. Foraker has the organization in the state. His friends are located all over the state, just where they can do him the tion in the state. His friends are located all over the state, just where they can do him the most good. Besides this the state executive committee is a Foraker organization to a man. But Mr. Sherman has many true friends in the party, who will make a plucky fight for him. The senatorial contest on the other side will be equally interesting. It is well fixed in the minds of Ohio people that Editor John R. Mc-Lean would like to go to the Senate and it us generally accepted that he will be a candidate if the democrats win in the congressional elections. Against McLean there would probably appear as candidates for United States Senator Gov. Campbell, Hon. L. T. Neal, John A. McMahon, Virgil P. Kline, James E. Neal, H. J. Booth, Sam F. Hunt, ex-Congressman Converse and Congressman Outhwaite.

After a Year's Work Flames in the Hil Farm Mine Extinguished. PITTSBURG, July 23.-A special from Dunbar, Pa., says: The workmen who have been laboring almost incessantly for a year since the dreadful Hill Farm mine disaster have at last put out the last flickering flame, and have pushed themselves to the great dam of water that stands in the lower heading of the mine. The struggle has been a long and laborious one for the company and those who have had charge of the work of reclaiming the mine and possibly the dead bodies of the unfortunate miners who gave up their lives on that dark day of June 16, 1890. Whether anything is concealed in the water that as yet fills the depth of the mine can only be determined when it is all pumped out. If the men perished in this part of the mine it is considered possible that at least some of their bones may be found, but nothing more, unless it may be the disper rails of the property.

If they met their death in another part of the mine where the fierce fires have been raging for months little hope is to be entertained of for months little hope is to be entertained of securing, at this late day, any relic of them. It will doubtless consume a great deal of time to pump the water from the mine, as it reaches back from the heading a distance of 100 feet and by the dip of the mine becomes very deep at the lower end. The work, however, will be done as soon as possible and the mysteries that have lain hidden for the past year as to the place and condition of the thirty-one illfated miners will, in the quickest time possi ble, be given to the relatives and the world a commercial point of view has constantly en-gaged the attention of European statemen, more especially those of Russia and England, each of which governments has repeatedly sought to conclude with the Persian monarch a treaty of commerce as the entering wedge to treaty of commerce as the entering wedge to greater encroachments upon his territory.

Some time ago the shah created a sensation in his court by naming the son of one of his concubines, an officer in the Persian army, as his successor, instead of the rightful heir, Mouzaaffer-Ed-Din, his legitimate son. This raised a tremendous row and the shah finally yielded to the opposition and abandoned his idea. The matter was kept as quiet as possible, but those who were aware of it recribed the shah's action to Russian intrigue. The seeds of discord having been thus sown the cribed the shah's action to Russian intrigue. The seeds of discord having been thus sown the likelihood of an uprising in favor of the pretender after the death of the shah is not remote, and just such a circumstance is what is more feared by English statesmen. Russia has thousands of troops on the frontier of Persia within easy marching distance of Teheran, while it would take England three months to get troops there if the frontier of Ferma while it would take ing distance of Teheran, while it would take England three months to get troops there if England three months to get troops there if their presence should be necessary. Should any disturbance occur in Persia through a change of government Russia would unquestionably move her troops forward to Teheran at once to "preserve order," and once there they would remain. It will therefore be seen that the shah's illness is indeed serious. LIKE HUMAN VULTURES

Congregation of the Paris Rabble About the Place de la Roquette Paris, July 23.-Horrible scenes have been witnessed during the past week on and about the Place de la Roquette, the place where criminals are executed by the guillotine. Crowds of the lowest of the low have assembled there every evening and have passed the night there every evening and have passed the night in the vicinity eagerly waiting to witness the execution of the murderess Berland and her accomplice Dore. On Saturday morning, as already cabled, a large crowd had gathered about the Piace de la Roquette in expectance of seeing these people executed, but the execution was postponed on account of the marriage of Executioner Deibler's son and assistant to the daughter of a provincial executioner. Since that time, Sunday morning excepted, the voyous and their consorts, as well as a certain number of people of a better class, have gathered each morning about the prison and the execution place, singing, shouting, and the execution place, singing, shouti-fighting and using obscene and profane i

The consequence was that the police were compelled to charge the crowd, making many arrests and somewhat clearing the air of the neighborhood.
